

Introduction

The European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System (hereinafter referred to as ECTS) is a credit transfer and accumulation system used in the European Higher Education Area for the purpose of providing, recognition, confirmation of qualifications and educational components. The system is based on determining the workload of the applicant for professional pre-higher education necessary to achieve certain learning outcomes, which is recorded in ECTS credits.

The credit of the European Credit Transfer and Accumulation System (hereinafter referred to as the ECTS credit) is a unit of measurement of the amount of workload of an applicant for professional pre-higher education necessary to achieve certain (expected) learning outcomes. The volume of one ECTS credit is 30 hours.

ECTS is a decentralized system of academic recognition of learning outcomes based on the principle of mutual trust between institutions of professional preliminary-higher education (hereinafter – IPPHE).

ECTS is based on the principles of mutual trust of participants and provides for the implementation of all parts of the rules : ECTS credits, training agreements and crediting.

ECTS is a system primarily focused on students (cadets). Students (cadets) are required to perform a certain load for learning programs. Learning outcomes must be indicated in final documents. ECTS credits are assigned to all theoretical and practical components of the educational program (modules, courses, practices, thesis, etc.). They reflect the amount of work spent on this component. Credits are received upon completion of work and receipt of a positive assessment.

Students (cadets) who use ECTS can receive credits for an academic work-credits and count them for another IPPHE.
